1.   Summary of Changes: This advisory adds the web address for the offline version of GHC 101 and clarifies that the previous version of the course should not be used for training.

2.   The DPMO staff is pleased to announce the launch of an updated version of the Global Household Goods Contract (GHC) Foundational Course (GHC 101) 0G1B. This course is intended to familiarize Defense Personal Property Program personnel on the GHC and to help them understand the changes from the current tender of service program introduced by the GHC. This course supports or supplements the on-the-job, formal, or informal training provided by organizations to their personal property professionals.

3.   In addition to converting the course from a recorded lecture to a traditional, computer-based training course, changes include:

   a)   The addition of the Government Surveillance Representative (GSR) role at the PPSOs and PPPOs.

   b)   Nomination and designation procedures for several Government functional positions under the GHC have been changed.

   c)   The data warehouse has changed from IGC to Advana.

   d)   Numerous minor changes to the text in an effort to better communicate information.

4.   The course is live as of 8 March 2023 and hosted on milUniversity, a module within the milSuite platform at (https://www.milsuite.mil). The course address is https://www.milsuite.mil/university/ghctraining/courses/global-household-goods-foundational-course-0g1b/.

Upon course completion, students will automatically be issued a certificate of training by the milUniversity website.

    a) On NIPRNet, your local, installation, or Service level network configurations may result in the inability to access some or all of milSuite.
